Da Vinci Capital and Inventure Executives
Invest in Ride Hailing Application Gett

LONDON (Sept. 24, 2018) – Da Vinci Capital, a leading emerging markets private equity firm, and key executives of Inventure Partners, a leading venture capital fund, have invested in Gett, a global transportation network and leader in corporate mobility services.

Gett, available in more than 120 cities worldwide, anticipates selling $1 billion of mobility services in 2018, with half coming from New York City and London. New York City, where Gett operates under the Juno brand, is the company's fastest growing market. Over 45,000 drivers – more than 50 percent of the New York City driver base – have joined Juno.

Gett's corporate mobility solution, known as Gett for Business, enables companies to book mobility services and track expenses across the globe from a single platform. More than 17,500 companies use Gett for Business to book rides in over 1,000 cities and 56 countries.

Gett is contribution margin profitable in all of its markets and is on track to become operationally profitable globally in the first quarter of 2019.

The transaction consists of a secondary purchase from an Inventure Partners-managed fund of its entire position in Gett, as well as follow-on participation in Gett's June 2018 primary financing round, in which the company raised $90 million from several existing shareholders, including the Volkswagen Group, Access Industries and Baring Vostok. Full completion of the secondary transaction is slated for mid-November 2018.

“The global taxi hailing market has displayed remarkable growth in recent years,” said Da Vinci Capital managing partner Dennis Fulling. “Gett has a focused strategy of providing the highest quality service to corporate and frequent riders. It is already paying off, with Gett leading the charge to profitable growth ahead of the competition. We are excited to help Gett reach its strategic objectives.”
